Natural CALLING

Wearably brave jewelry crafted from organic materials is the definition of every piece in Dandi Maestre's highly celebrated collection. Antlers, horns, raw amber, coconuts, skins, and even reclaimed wood take on a new identity in her earthy and artistic hands. The Colombian-born artist began her transformation from graphic design to exotic jewelry design and never looked back. Based in Toronto, her collections take influence from her travels, and indigenous and tribal cultures around the world. "Taking nature as my inspiration, I explore organic shapes found in rivers, jungles shores, and forests," Maestre says. With pieces that already create a breathtaking statement, if these jewels could talk, Maestre is confident in their message: "Nothing lasts, nothing is finished, and nothing is perfect. Just be real." • dandimaestre.com

Simple COMPLEXITY

Calleen Cordero embraces her casual-chic style. From a bohemian sandal to a head-turning heel, Cordero's collection of handbags, belts, cuffs, and shoes are handcrafted with an old world-inspired style that can take your look from day to night with little adjustment. The free-flowing California spirit shines through Cordero's look, but the true story is told in the artistic details that are incorporated into the stylish pieces. We love the cuffs! • calleencordero.com
